

Woodstock comes to Wareside The Overtures, live in Concert

The White Horse pub in Wareside held their annual fancy dress fundraising bash on the 29th June. This year's theme was Woodstock, peace, love and all things hippy like.

The famous Overtures were the headline act and played many well-known great songs from the summer of love. The local Mayor Mr. Willy Dunn, aided and abetted by Bob Kerr and his family, pulled out all the stops and the marquee was dressed as a great festival site, complete with free mud, free grass, free love, dream catchers and endless tie-dyes.

The Landlord, Danny Field, and all his catering staff did a huge picnic barbeque to feed the hordes of hungry hippies and some people definitely had the munchies.....

There was a prize for the best fancy dress, won by a new local couple Steve and Sarah, who actually did turn up in birthday suits!

The charities benefitting this year are the Wareside Church Fund and the Wareside Village Hall, who shared almost £1,300 between them.

A great night was had by one and all, even the Overtures said it was one of the best gigs they had ever played at.

What next we wonder?
